

I know we don't know each other just yet,
I know we don't see each other on roads and smile,
But despite that,give a moment
Lets sit and have a cup of coffee for a while.
I know we aren't friends yet,
Not even acquaintances,
We probably don't even know each other's names, let alone our prides and grievances.
I will not ask you for promises,
I'd not reserve you to stay,
You can simply choose to sit,
Or leave for your way.
But I hope you sit for a while,
I hope we can have some coffee,
I hope we get to know each other,
I hope friends we can be.
For starters I can tell you I listen quite well,
So you can account your journey through heaven ,
Or your struggles through your hell.
We could discuss our favorite songs,
Or the movies that we liked,
Or you could share those memories,
On which you were always psyched.
You could tell me about your failures,
Or wins that you are proud of ,
You could tell me about the person you admired the most,
Or the person at whom you always used to scoff.
You could tell me about the days that you spent not coming out of bed,
The days you couldn't get out of your own head,
Or the days you could not sleep,
the days that you spent laughing,
Or the days that hurt you deep.
You could tell me about the letter in your diary, that you wrote to your first beloved,
a letter never sent ,
You could tell me about those spiteful words you said,
Words that hurt the people you loved,words you never meant.
You could tell me all those secrets that you tried hard to bury,
I'm here,I'm listening,not judging,
And I'm in no hurry.
After a thousand cups ,
we'd better take a walk,
And we'd walk in silence,

No void will be left to fill with talk.
Maybe we 'll get lost in life again,
Maybe we'll find new happinesses,new pain.
But whenever we see each other,
we'll stop and smile,
For friends we'd be,
And if we'd have some time,
We'll sit for a while and reminisce over a cup of coffee.

Last modified: 8 Oct 2019